Kentucky State Police say they are investigating after a shooting in central Kentucky left a woman dead and a man injured.

Police said that they were called to the scene on Thursday night in Grayson County. Police say they arrived to find the woman shot in the chest and the man shot in the arm. Both were taken to a hospital, but the woman was pronounced dead on arrival. The man's injuries were not believed to be life-threatening.

Police say they are questioning a 92-year-old man about the shooting, but no charges have been filed.

Police have not released any names.
