

After a 10 day break Kentucky lawmakers reconvene in Frankfort with some very important issues before them...The headline issue of this year's session has been the pension system. The two legislative bodies hope to come together on pension reform and identify a way to fund it.

State Representative Johnny Bell explained for WCLU News the difference in Senate Bill 2 and the version the house has introduced:

{audio}http://wcluradio.com/newscuts/0325bell1.mp3{/audio}

Bell has researched the consequences of not doing anything to the state's pension system:

{audio}http://wcluradio.com/newscuts/0325bell2.mp3{/audio}

Something that would clearly put Kentucky in a state of upheaval. The session is scheduled to end Tuesday.

REP. BELL EXPLAINS THE PROBLEM WITH ADDRESSING THE PENSION PROBLEM

Monday, 25 March 2013 03:49
