

One Glasgow native is hoping to win big. Professional golfer Kent Bulle will draw on his past experience when he competes to win the Irvin Cobb tournament this weekend

Bulle says he sharpened his competitive edge as a seventh grader playing against a group of high school seniors- all of whom would go on to play Division 1 golf.

Playing against such good players at a young age meant Bulle had to learn the game quickly. It's a lesson Bulle has applied throughout his golfing career:

Each of Bulle's former teammates has won the Irvin Cobb tournament in the past. Bulle thinks this weekend could be his turn to take the championship:

The Irvin Cobb Tournament will take place at the Paxton Park golf Course in Paducah and will go from Friday to Sunday.
