

Aline Irihamye of Lexington and Naomi Kellogg of Elizabethtown, both seniors in the Gatton Academy of Mathematics and Science in Kentucky

at WKU, have been recognized as semifinalists in the National Achievement Scholarship Program, an honor which potentially opens the door to college scholarship opportunities.

“These young ladies exemplify excellence in every aspect of their lives,” said Dr. Tim Gott, Gatton Academy Director. “This recognition is just another affirmation of their hard work and dedication. Aline and Naomi are outstanding role models for all of Kentucky’s students.”
