

The Kentucky Geographic Alliance, housed at Western Kentucky University, has received a grant of $34,500 from the National Geographic Education Foundation. These yearly grant funds have been used to design over 100 Kentucky maps and a soon to be published Kentucky Atlas for 4th-8th grade students. The Kentucky Geographic Alliance has long advocated and supported geographic education.

KGA Co-Coordinator Dr. S. Kay Gandy stresses the importance of Geography education in our interconnected world:

{audio}http://wcluradio.com/newscuts/100913kgadrgandy.mp3{/audio}

The Kentucky Geographic Alliance has been active in Kentucky since the 1980's. Dr. Gandy, along with Co-Coordinator Scott Dobler, are excited about this alliance with National Geographic Education Foundation and are dedicated to strengthening geo-literacy in Kentucky.

For more information on the KGA, visit www.kga.org or read their monthly newsletter called Kentucky in the News.

KENTUCKY GEOGRAPHIC ALLIANCE RECEIVES GRANT

Wednesday, 09 October 2013 08:01

Congratulations to Dr. Gandy and the KGA!