

More than 50 research projects by WKU undergraduate students, graduate students and faculty were presented at the 99th annual meeting of the Kentucky Academy of Science at Morehead University.

Dr. Chris Groves, director of WKU's Hoffman Environmental Research Institute presented a lecture entitled "Living on Karst Landscapes in Kentucky and Throughout the World."

From our listening area, the following students placed in research competitions:

In Zoology: Jacob Fose, grad student from Bowling Green won 1st place

Kayla Pittman grad student from Bowling Green placed 2nd

In Ecology and Environmental Science: grad student from Bowling Green placed 3rd

In Chemistry Yogesh Kherde, a grad student from Bowling Green placed 3rd

In Engineering Mychal-Drew Moses a grad student from Bowling Green placed 3rd

In Computer and Information Systems: Bryan Knowles from Franklin place 3rd

In Geology: Richard Burnworth from Franklin placed 3rd

In Health Sciences: Addie Dodson from Bowling Green placed 2nd

In Mathematics: Stephanie Hagan from Brownsville placed 3rd

In Ecology and Environmental Science: Ryan Vincent from Bowling Green placed 3rd

In Physics and Astronomy Mitchell Harmon from Franklin placed 3rd

Congratulations to all on this great achievement.