

The United Way of Southern Kentucky has received a donation of $3400 from the TVA. The funding is part of TVA's decade long support of the United Way and its numerous programs in a ten county region of southern Kentucky.

Steve Wallace, President and CEO of United Way of Southern Kentucky says "We are extremely proud to partner with the Tennessee Valley Authority to help address serious issues affecting those in our community. The commitment made by the TVA in supporting the basic health and human service needs in Southern Kentucky is truly inspiring and on behalf of all of those who will be helped because of their generous donation, I extend my sincerest thanks."
