Bands of Petty Thieves Are Operating in Stores Here. Local merchants are being made victims of young shoplifters, both black and white, who operate in gangs. Dresses, caps, odds and ends, and various other articles are daily stolen and then resold. Merchants are advised to keep close watch on these people and to report all thefts to the police department for further action when a theft is detected. (1)

Passing of Fine Sulphur Well. With passing of this well in the courthouse yard that formerly furnished the public its water supply, we are reminded that for years and years this well was known far and wide for the excellence of its sulphur water. However, of late years, this stream has not been utilized. Constant shifting and resetting of the casing has resulted in loss of the sulphur stream, much to the regret of all who remember its fine water. (1)

Miss Frances Barlow and Mr. Glenn Ropp were quietly married in Louisville on Thanksgiving Day. Mrs. Ropp is one of Glasgow's most accomplished and most popular young women and is a very successful teacher in the City Schools. She is cultured, refined and intelligent, and she numbers her friends by her acquaintances. She is an A.B. graduate of Sophie Newcomb College in New Orleans and an A.M. graduate of Alabama State. Mr. Ropp, better known by his baseball name, Dick Mann, has made his home in Glasgow for the past few years and is popular with a wide circle of friends. They will make their home at Mrs. Ropp's place on West Washington Street. (4)

Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Dixon, Tampa, Florida, entertained the Kentucky Dixon families at a long distance dinner on Thanksgiving Day. Although they were in Florida, they provided a sumptuous dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Karl E. Rapp, arranging the menu and bearing the expense. This is a unique way to "keep the home fires burning" when absent in person, and Mr. and Mrs. Dixon are to be congratulated on originating such a delightful and unusual plan of enjoying fellowship with loved ones, even though many miles separated them. Glasgow housewives have been “gypped” the last few days by fake salesmen who collect advances on stockings, books, and other acceptable gifts for Christmas. The usual procedure is to quote attractive prices on attractive samples, take the order and cash advance, and then leave town. The aggregate of these fake sales runs high. So, in view of this, play safe, refuse these people, and buy your needs at home from people you can trust. (1)

AD. Folks’ Economy Store. 12th Semi-Annual Sale Now in Full Swing. We are following the same practice that carried us through depressions and prosperity. And this practice seems to work. We’re not panicky. We’re not handling shoddy merchandise in order to be able to flash the “low price” banner. We simply follow the sane standards that work in good or bad times – the offering of merchandise of unquestioned quality, selling it at the lowest price possible. Come in and check us out! (4)

Cave City, Glasgow, and possibly half of the county is in the grip of influenza of a mild type. The coughing, sneezing, red-eyed individual thus afflicted should be home in bed instead of scattering his germs about the streets and highways. Rest, and plenty of it, is one of the best treatments prescribed. So go to bed and remain there until you are well. (1)

The remains of John F. Hewitt, 75, who died suddenly last week, were taken to Scottsville Friday for interment in the cemetery there. Mr. Hewitt, one of the finest citizens of his community, had been a resident of Beckton for many years, having moved there from Allen County. He is survived by his wife. (1)

Co-Operation. The icy highway Tuesday resulted in several wrecks on North and South Jacksonway. Tobacco wagons, autos and other conveyances skidded and left the road. Interested in the market of tobacco, the State maintenance crew under Buford Wood came to the aid of growers whose wagons had skidded off the slick pavement. Trucks pulled several wagons to market after teams had been crippled or injured. And, while out of the usual routine of work, the maintenance crew felt justified in its labors. Mr. Wood is commended for this cooperation. (1)

The Kentucky State Highway Department, in view of curtailed funds and the closing-down of the road season, has been compelled to temporarily "lay off" a number of employees all over the state. The order will affect several in this vicinity. (1)

DECEMBER 29, 1932

A rather out of the ordinary fire occurred at the home of Mr. Frank Furlong in the Beech Grove section one night last week. Fire that destroyed a lot of wearing apparel was discovered in a dresser drawer, about the middle of the drawer. How the fire originated is a complete mystery. The drawer was at least 12 feet from a stove from which the fire could have started. The only logical conclusion is that a mouse and a match started the fire which, fortunately, was discovered in time to prevent much damage. (1)
