New Uniforms for Policemen Here Glasgow's police force will get a "new look" in uniforms starting Monday. Chief Lyle said the force will begin wearing new summer uniforms then. The uniforms are powder-blue & have been tailored for the members of the force. Black stripes down the trouser legs replace the yellow stripes on the old outfits.

Another uniform change will be made this fall when the long jackets are replaced as part of the winter uniform with "Ike" jackets.

The uniform change was made to bring Glasgow's force on par with other cities which are discarding the old type uniform. This will aid the economy since the new uniforms are easier to keep looking neat & are more comfortable.

Glasgow Is Baffler

What are the people who live in Glasgow called? Glasgowians? Glasgowans? Glasgoans?

This city has one of those odd combinations of letters in its name of letters in its name which makes it difficult to refer to persons living here as anything other than "residents."

Mrs. Jennie Jean Jones, Mary Wood Weldon librarian, cited Gorin, authority on spelling and came up with "Glasgowians."

Nothing Official

The city officials apparently shy away from the used of the word in documents. Malcolm Smith, city clerk, said he could not recall any official paper where the word was used.
